North Carolina HISTORIC SITES

The Charlotte Hawkins Brown Museum was once the site of Palmer Memorial Institute, a premier boarding school for African Americans from 1902 to 1971. This historic site sits on the former PMI campus (approximately 40 acres) with green lawns, mature cedar and oak trees, and historic buildings dating from the 1920's.

Kimball Hall, the former dining hall, is our most desired venue. Built in 1927, it retains its original majestic façade, wooden floors, deep crown moldings, and eight-foot tall windows. A catering kitchen is also available with top-of-the-line equipment. The building receives striking natural light throughout the day and is the perfect choice for any special occasion.

We also have large lawns that can be reserved, including historic East Lawn and Stone Yard. Palmer Pavilion, a picnic shelter with a catering kitchen, restrooms, and ceiling fans, is also a popular choice for parties and family reunions. You and your guests are invited to visit the museum and gift shop and take a tour of the Palmer campus and Canary Cottage, the historic home of Dr. Brown, during regular operating hours.

For any occasion, the Charlotte Hawkins Brown Museum has a place for you!
